E-procurement: what it is and how it's used - IONOS

E-procurement is the process of buying and selling supplies and services over the Internet. It differs from e-commerce in that it makes use of a supplier's closed system typically available only to registered users. When implemented properly, e-procurement opens the lines of communication between a company and a supplier by creating a direct link and facilitating interactions such as bids, purchase orders and emails. Benefits of
